Neighbourhood Watch:

Firstly: There are two smartly dressed men posing as plumbers who have been offering to survey peoples bathrooms. Although neither left the bathroom it is surmised that they were "casing the joint". This was in Middlestoke.

Secondly if you receive insurance documents for a car that you do not own, keep any paperwork that you may have received through the post and make contact with the providing insurance company and Police immediately. This has been a problem for sometime; people are giving low risk postcode areas as their home address even though they don't live there. These people are doing this to insure their vehicles for a substantially lower price in order to defraud the insurance company and in the long run this could cost honest people more money for their premiums.
